VENDOR DECLARATION NOTES - PIGS

Background. Vendor Declaration (NVD) serves two key purposes: it enables traceability of pigs in the event of an animal disease outbreak; and it identifies areas of potential risk for processors in supplying their markets.

Completing the declaration

Any false or misleading statements made in a completed Declaration may lead to prosecution and/or attract civil action by the purchaser. The form is to be completed by the owner or person responsible for the consigned pigs. The original goes with the pigs to the purchaser or destination.

The owner of the consigned pigs, or the trading name, is to be shown on the form together with the full address and phone number of the owner. The property identification code (PIC) of the property where the journey is to commence is to be recorded together with the PIC for the destination of the consignment of pigs if the pigs are sold to another producer. Ask the buyer for his/her PIC. The PIC is the number allocated to your pig producing property by the Department of Primary Industries Parks Water and Environment. If you do not know your PIC you will need to contact DPIPWE on 1300 368 550. Your Brand/tattoo number is also to be recorded.

Description of the pigs is to be shown on the form including number of pigs in the consignment type of pigs (pork, bacon, cull sow/cull boar, heavy gilt, sow, gilt boar, grower, weaner).

All pigs over 10 weeks are required to be branded before sale or slaughter. Any variation to this arrangement eg individual pig identification must be approved by the relevant State authority. You should check with the relevant authority about identification requirements if you are unsure.

Q2 History of consigned pigs: National Performance Standards for livestock Traceability approved by Federal and state governments require the ability to trace individual animals and their companions back to their property of birth in the event of suspected exotic disease in one or more pigs in the consignment. You are therefore required to indicate whether pigs in the consignment have resided on the property since birth or if not the period they have resided on the property.

Q3(ESIs & WHPs): Export slaughter intervals (ESIs) and Withholding Periods (WHPs) for commonly used veterinary medicines , ESIs refer to the period following treatment when pigs are unsuitable for export market requirements are met. WHPs refer to the periods following treatment when pigs are unsuitable for processing for domestic consumption.

More information on the ESIs and WHPs is provided on the (Australian Pesticides and Veterinary Medicines Authority website at www.apvma.com.au).

Veterinary medicines must be used according to label instructions unless an alternative use is prescribed by registered veterinarian. The prescription must include a recommended WHP and ESI that ensures that Australian and overseas meat residue standards are met.

Q4(Feed): Any feed used for pigs should ideally be purchased from a QA certified supplier, supported by a declaration that the feeds do not contain any chemical or other residues which may be of concern to pork markets.

Q5(Welfare and processing): It is important to indicate when the consigned pigs were last fed and watered for welfare and abattoir scheduling purposes and also to ensure compliance with medicated feed withholding periods

Declaration – to be completed by the person responsible for the husbandry of the pigs.

Signing the declaration has legal significance. Regulatory authorities may take legal action and purchasers may seek damages if any information is incorrect. Before signing you must be absolutely satisfied you understand all elements of the document and these explanatory notes.

The declaration you are signing also states that the consigned pigs have not been fed swill and that they are fit to travel. Swill is anything (including food scraps) containing meat or other matter from placental mammals and any other substances prohibited by state or territory legislation but generally does not include tallow, gelatine, dairy products or commercially rendered meat bone or fish meal.
